In committing It to the press I am taking a questionable liberty with him, for the letter is marked private, but in the present circumstances of the country, I think it is so desirable that the people should know the real temper of the South, that I feel justified in publishing this letter from one who, at the outbreak of the war, was the representative man of the Union party of fire South, and is the recognized exponent of the Southern sentiment at this moment. President Lancoun had great | tract : confidence in Mr. STEPHESS. He told me repeatedly that he had offered him a seat in is Cabinet, and he retained great regard for him to the last. And had I been governed by personal feelings I should not now be in the situation I am. If the Union shall be restored under the Constitution, as I earnestly desire to see it done, and I am willng to do all I can toward that end, it is my fixed purpose to retire forever from all connection with public affairs, so that while it would seem that my present efforts are tending to a result in which I have more or less Senator in Congress - yet I assure you I never expect or intend to hold that position long, even if the seat should be awarded to Yours truly, "ALEXANDER H. THE MINORITY REPORT ON THE AL-LEGED COMPLICITY OF JEFFERNON DAVIS IN THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

Washington, July -, 1866.—Represen tative Rooms yesterday made a minority re-port, signed by himself only as a member of the Judiciary Committee, to which was referred an investigation as to what complicit if any, JEFFERSON DAVIS and others had it the assassination of President Lincoln. He says for some reason or reasons not fully stated, the majority of the committee determined to throw in his way every possible impediment, not only in any assistance be might try to render them in what he considered a common task imposed upon them by the House, but even in his working out any conclusion for himself. When it became evident that in this they would not only have none of his assistance or fellow ship, but resented deeply any attempt of his to render it, the papers were put away from him, locked in boxes, hidden, and when he asked to see them, he was told, day after day and week after week, that he could not have access to them. It was not until noon on The weight of the entire insulation, 400 Friday that he was allowed freely to look pounds per nautical mile. Diameter of core, through them and derive any knowledge .464: circumference of core, 1.392. based upon examination for the purposes of this report. Had the majority permitted frim to use the customary privileges, but from which they excluded him, this report would have been of more benefit to the cause of justice and of truth than he could now tope to make it. Mr. Roughs says the main portions of the testimony alleged to connect Jeffenson Davis and others with the assassination of President Lincoln was all expante, and in the absence of any person cross-que and explaining it. The method of the exmination of Sanyoro Conoven, the princapal witness and originator of all the oral mony relevant, procured by the Bureau of Military Justice to establish the guilt of Davis, was this, namely: The testimony he had given at the assassination mock trials of the 20th of May, 1865, was read to him, when he said it was all true. Mr. Rooms examines at some length the testimony of Conoven Manners, and others, to show its worthlessness and total unreliability. That of the first named being wholly invalidated by his contradictions, would amount to nothunexplained. When Mr. Hour forwarded it with the rest, he accompanied the whole with an explanatory argument, every sen-tence of which is redolent with the logic of otion, and to him (Mr. Rooms) it almost felt as if it revealed something of personal motive in the conviction. The send- | cal mileing of any argument to convince the committee was in itself a step of doubtful propriety. In conclusion, he said: "I cannot agree with the statement made in the concluding paragraphs of the majority report, that it is the duty of the Executive Department of the Government for a reasonable time, and by the proper means, to procure the investigations for the purpose of ascertaining the truth." The Government, Mr. ROTTER says, through the Bureau of Military Justice, has pursued its investigations bear its own weight in a little less than 5 over one year with the rigor of uniliary power, and the expenditure of vast amounts, and in Conover, Campera, Snevel, and Company we have the result of their labors.
